Regulatory Compliance Global

LexisNexis Regulatory Compliance is a compliance register and alerting solution helping compliance professionals achieve their clear path to compliance.

THE PROBLEM

Regulatory changes take place every 6 minutes, globally, with over 5,000 regulatory and legislative changes in Australia alone annually. Amidst an accelerating change landscape, organisations are constantly under growing pressure, by regulators and society at large, to understand complex regulatory obligations, translate them into actionable measures, and achieve holistic and continuous compliance.

HOW WE SOLVE IT

The world-renowned information architecture of LexisNexis is our foundation, leveraged by a global team of compliance content subject matter experts and a network of legal and industry experts. Through this network, we review, interpret, translate and consolidate the swathe of obligations that arise from compliance sources, including legislation, codes, standards, and more.

We deliver this information—written in clear, easy to understand language—through our compliance registers, alerts, and other information-driven solutions.

Our aim is to realise simplicity from complexity, making it as easy as possible for you to become compliant, and stay compliant as the landscape changes.

THE REGTECH ASSOCIATION

Aussie Broadband is an Australian operated telecommunications company, providing internet, mobile and other telephony services across the country.

The Challenge

Aussie Broadband was manually reviewing their processes and policies to ensure compliance across every level of the businesses. In the past, this required the organisation to manually highlight changes, interpret meaning and introduce relevant changes in a timely and strategic manner. An arduous process that put stress on the team's resources.

The Solution

The development of a comprehensive register of information meant the entire regulatory compliance team could easily and efficiently find the latest updates and understand how these changes impacted the business.

The Result

"LexisNexis pushes the information to us rather than us having to go looking for it. The efficiencies are through the roof."

Testimonial

"LexisNexis has saved us the equivalent of six months' work for a fulltime staff member."
